Your sign

Character	Lively and independent, the Horse needs space, movement and a goal to run towards.
Strengths	Energetic, sociable and hard-working; quick to learn and good at getting others moving.
Watch for	Impatience and fickleness. Dropping a project the moment it stops being exciting.

Element of the birth year: Metal

Metal adds resolve: more principled and disciplined, sets firm goals and holds to them, sometimes rigidly.

The year and your sign

The branch of the year: secret friend

The year's branch is your secret friend (六合). Folk practice reads this as quiet support: help arrives from people and circumstances without being asked for, and partnerships go well.

The element of the year

The year's Fire controls your Metal. A year of pressure and discipline: rules, deadlines and expectations from outside.

Allies and tension in the year

Those born in these years, and the months and days of these branches, stand to you as named. Folk practice reads them as company to seek or to handle with care.

Your trine (三合)	Tiger, Dog
Secret friend (六合)	Goat

Opposite sign (六冲)	Rat
Harm (六害)	Ox

Method and sources

- The year starts at Lichun, the instant the Sun reaches 315 degrees, and each month at its 節 term, computed from the ephemeris.
- Branch relations by the classical arithmetic: 六合, 三合, 六冲 and 六害.
- Animal and element characterisations after Theodora Lau, The Handbook of Chinese Horoscopes, and the Wu Xing correspondences, in our own words.

The Chinese zodiac is a folk tradition. A year read by the animal of one's birth year is a broad picture shared by everyone born in that year; a personal reading needs the full four pillars. This report is not medical, financial, legal or psychological advice.
